

Family Studies FAQs

Family studies is an interdisciplinary program. Therefore, we draw on—and contribute to—multiple disciplines in order to serve families. Family Studies is field through which graduates use research findings to create programs, policies, and practices to improve the environments in which children, youth, adults, and families interact.

- Policy Analysts
- Family Therapists
- Family Court Mediators
- Family Marketing Strategists
- Family Finance Educators
- Mental Health Counselors
- Military Family Support
- Early Childhood Educators
- Child Welfare Advocates
- Healthcare and Family Wellness Specialists
- Directors of Aging Services
- Researchers